Skinny Skribbles

Around And About Town

With C. F. (Skinny) Skribbin

Los Angeles admits the heat wave has been broken. Down this way we've never even admitted it existed. Now who's got the best chamber of commerce?

That event known as the Pomona fair, sometimes the Los Angeles County fair, and the old Orange county fair now consolidated with the former fairs, will be held this season at Pomona, September 16 to 21. It has grown to be a great showing of agricultural production and thoroughbred horses. The attendance often exceeds grandstand capacity. That's why my ticket wasn't any good last year. The ticket and the fellow who held it arrived too late to get a place to sit down. That's conclusive evidence people like the show. So many of them go.

Ben Baker has sent me a freak tomato, or at least it was a freak when Ben finished his surgical work. The tomato must have been staggering a little as it had to be propped so it could stand up, and all the time I thought they used tomato after and not the night before. But this one knows where it's going, as it has been open, it must be awfully jealous, though, as the optics are green. I am sure, however, there had at one time been some appendectomy trouble, as there is evidence of an operation. Hope Ben won't feel badly when he finds out I do not like tomatoes.

Craving a streamline trip, two Santa Ana men invested in a couple of tickets which were supposed to possess authority for all the thrills and accommodations of modern transportation. When the train arrived it was smoke-propelled, the reserved seats were null and void, and cars of a vintage belonging to a lost era. The only trouble with this story as turned in by the two Santa Ana gentlemen, is its exaggerations.

Another candidate for the hall of fame, politically speaking, Card for William G. Bonelli, member state board of equalization, fourth district, gets into the throne room. According to Bonelli's friends he is entitled to conspicuous position. They say he is an "ace" man on the board. That's what they say. I avoid preferences in this column, although I have 'em.

Card from young vacationist to employer: "Dear Mr. Boss: I am getting along without me; quite hard I know, but do try. I am having a good time except for the food. No one can cook and I have had a stomach ache. Will see you Saturday. Your best boy, Wimpy." Which is a typical vacation card, form a typical youth. The place of business is struggling along with hope of keeping the place a going concern until "Wimpy" gets back to take charge.

Bart E. DeVol has become a columnist, and has progressed as far as the heading. The rest of the column will be devoted to insurance.

An inappropriate salutation: "Good morning, you old soak." And that happened to be the only morning of the week that the saluted was sober.

Frank Miller contemplates an enlistment with some European army, but I warned him before rush-in to make a careful selection, as the prospect of so many countries becoming involved gave him quite a list to select from. My choice up to now would be Germany as it is only sympathetically motivated, and toward Japan. You may get the worst of it, but you won't have to go to a hospital.

Ed Durling reverses the rule and sees America last. Took a trip into Orange county, including Santa Ana, and made the remarkable discovery the town needs a new depot, and both the town and the railroad long ago discovered the railroad needs more business so it can build a new depot. Ed concludes from the Los Angeles point of view, that the railroads entering L. A. should invest ten million dollars in a union plant, when none of the roads were making any astonishing records for meeting interest payments on bonds, and some of them struggling to meet the pay rolls. A new depot for Santa Ana is one of the expectations, but the Dietz knows that revenues do not prove it to be a necessity.

And then there was a tip that a new finance company was coming to town, and was I interested?

Once upon a time and not so long ago after the heavy rains had left their mark on the ceiling, the landlord decided to have some repainting done, which would have been all right if all the paint had gone on the ceiling. But it happened on the wall.

Jap-Russ Fighting Stopped

MOSCOW, (AP)—The vest-pocket war on the Siberian frontier, which threatened to involve Russia and Japan in a major conflict, appeared well on the way to peaceful settlement today.

Both sides agreed to a truce after a peace parley between the Soviet Russian foreign minister, Maxim Litvinoff, and the Japanese ambassador, Mamoru Shigemitsu, and to order their forces to cease military operations at noon today.

Not all points of the dispute over the frontier position about Changkufeng hill, center of contention since July 11 were cleared up by the agreement—the basis for re-defining the border remained a thorny problem which could start new quarrels.

The one main point was settled, however: Both sides agreed to stop fighting.

A communique announced Japan and Russia had decided that their respective troops would remain in positions they held at midnight Aug. 10. (Domei, Japanese news agency, reported from Tokyo the same information, that a truce was agreed upon.)

A commission of two Soviet representatives and two Japanese Manchoukuo representatives was agreed upon to deal with demarcation of the frontier.

The Soviet communique this morning specifically stated, however, that "agreement had been reached about the basis for work of the demarcation commission."

In other words, Tokyo had not agreed to recognize the treaty of 1886, between Russia and China, which Moscow heretofore has insisted must be recognized as authoritative in determining the boundary.

The Japanese ambassador promised, however, the Soviet government would consult its government on this point, which may forestall any new outbreak in the border quarrel.

Shigemitsu had sought to have the demarcation based on other data, not yet committed to the Soviet government.

Japan has held the Hunchun treaty maps never were published and that Japan has no knowledge of their content and therefore should not be expected to accept them as a basis for boundary negotiations.

Litvinoff made the armistice proposals and suggested that the border commission include a representative of a third power, an arbiter, but that Shigemitsu refused to consider this.

'QUIET,' SAYS JAPAN
TOKYO, (AP)—The Japanese war office announced tonight complete quiet prevailed throughout the Siberian-Manchoukuo border region as the Soviet-Russian-Japanese armistice went into effect.

"Complete firing order" went out at noon in the disputed border zone, where Soviet and Japanese troops have been fighting since July 29, in accordance with the terms of the armistice agreement reached in Moscow.

A short statement from the foreign office said both parties agreed to halt military operations at noon, Soviet maritime province time, and to maintain the lines they held at Wednesday midnight.

Domei (Japanese news agency) said that cheering and silence "valley in the frontier area, broken only by occasional bursts of gunfire like fireworks," (presumably in celebration), with each side calmly watching the other retreat.

An area several hundred yards wide separated the two forces at 75 yards apart on the slopes of Changkufeng hill.

Following the cease firing order, Domei said, the "chattering of the Russians" was "clearly audible" to the Japanese.

Merriam Attends Fiesta Opening
SANTA BARBARA, (AP)—Dedication of Santa Barbara's new $100,000 national guard armory today was scheduled as an impressive prelude to an afternoon parade by 1500 horsemen celebrating this city's annual fiesta.

Both Governor Frank F. Merriam and Senator William G. McAdoo were to officiate at the dedication and then ride in the parade along with Actor Leo Carrillo.

Twenty-seven planes heavily bombed Hanyang and Wuchang, across the Yangtze river from Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, in the afternoon raid.

Hundreds Seek Entrance to Pension Hearings

More than 2000 supporters of the "Life Begins at 50" pension plan crowded the state building at San Francisco seeking admittance to the supreme court chambers to hear arguments on the proposal to pay $30 a week to pensioners. The arguments were on two petitions for writs of mandate to compel the secretary of state to keep the measure off the November ballot. Above is part of the throng.

RULING ON $30 PLAN AWAITED

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—The California supreme court said it would act in 10 days on two petitions for a writ of mandate to prevent the so-called single tax plan from being placed on the November general election ballot.

The court took the matter under advisement yesterday after hearing two hours of arguments.

Lawyers for Sidney R. Epperson, San Francisco taxpayer and Edward Skormann, Alameda county taxpayer, attacked the proposal on the ground it was a multiple measure. The attorneys argued that each proposal must be voted on separately.

Opponents also contended the initiative proposal "would not only repeal the various existing tax laws, but the state would be prevented from re-enacting them."

Attorney B. J. Feigenbaum, representing Skormann, asserted the circulation title of the petition was "deceptive in failing to point out the real purpose is to transfer all costs of government to a single tax on land."

Robert Harrison, chief deputy attorney general, in rebuttal, declared:

"It has been our contention for a long time, although never decided by judicial determination, the people can do anything they please to the constitution by initiative."

Oakland Unions Hurl Ultimatum
OAKLAND, (AP)—Repudiating leadership of the AFL strike strategy committee, nine of the 17 unions involved in the Whitthorne and Swan department store strike announced today they would return to work unless the company accepted a settlement proposal by 5 p. m.

The plan was suggested recently by Joseph M. Casey, teamster leader, who suggested the strikers return to work and then start negotiations on demand for a closed shop.

Earlier today, the Oakland local of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters withdrew from the Alameda county central labor council (AFL) as a direct result of the strike.

More Time Asked For State Probe
WASHINGTON, (AP)—Senate campaign expenditures committee investigators reported from California today they needed more time to complete their work in that state.

The committee had expected that the investigators would be able to report by Aug. 15 on charges made by James W. Mellen, Democratic senatorial candidate, that supporters of Senator McAdoo, seeking re-nomination, had levied a campaign assessment against employees of the interior revenue bureau.

Alice Marble In Grass Semifinals
RYE, N. Y. (AP)—Alice Marble of Beverly Hills, Cal., the nation's No. 1 woman tennis star, led the advance into the semi-final round of the Eastern grass courts championship today when she whipped Barbara Winslow of Hollywood, Cal., 6-1, 6-2.

Big Shot? 'Nope!' Says Corrigan; He'll Be Co-Pilot, Flying In Right Direction
WASHINGTON, (AP)—Douglas Corrigan said today he planned to return immediately to New York to reassemble his $800 Atlantic-spanning airplane and then to prepare for a regular job.

Feted at a breakfast by Oswald Ryan, member of the civil aeronautics authority, Corrigan told a group of government officials he intended soon to accept a co-pilot's job with American Airlines.

"Co-pilot?" an official asked, "I thought you'd be a bigger shot than that."

"No," smiled the unassuming flier, "I guess it'll be a long time before I'm a big shot."

Corrigan conferred again with Denis Mulligan, director of the House Propaganda Probers Call 4 'Mystery' Men

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Chairman Dies (D. Tex.) said today four "mystery witnesses" would appear tomorrow at the opening of the house investigation of un-American propaganda.

He declined to disclose their names to reporters. He did say they were "coming from quite a distance."

Dies' special committee has been given $25,000 to track down any foreign propaganda sources operating in this country.

In a statement today he said his group "will not permit any 'character assassination' or any 'smearing' of innocent people."

CITY BUDGET NEARS READING
Its provisions kept secret until last-minute changes can be made, Santa Ana's 1938-39 city budget was being put in final form today with first reading scheduled for Monday's city council meeting.

Councilmen have concluded their series of conferences with city department heads, and only question-mark remaining on the budget is in connection with the city's part in rebuilding the joint outfall sewer.

Aim of the council is to keep next year's general fund tax rate at the same figure as this year's. In event Gov. Frank Merriam turns down the outfall sewer district's request for $80,000 from the state's emergency flood fund, however, and if the cost of the sewer cannot be listed as an emergency expenditure, a slight boost in the tax rate was believed virtually certain.

Oakland Tennis Star Suspended
CINCINNATI, (AP)—Stanley W. Lewis, member of the executive committee of the Western Lawn Tennis association, announced today the suspension for one year of Frankie Kovacs, Oakland tennis star, from all tournaments sanctioned by the association.

The suspension, Lewis said, "was based primarily on Kovacs' conduct in the tri-state tourney" here, June 25 to July 4. Kovacs played in only one match, pleaded an injured ankle and, Lewis added, appeared June 30 in a tournament match at Glen Cove, L. I.

Sample Ballot Printing Complete
Printing of sample election ballots for the Democratic and Republican party affiliations was completed last night, County Clerk B. J. Smith revealed today, but the sample ballots will not go into the mails until ballots for the seven minor parties are printed.

Ballots will be in the mails by next week, Smith predicted, although the county clerk legally has until Aug. 25 to mail sample ballots.

With separate ballots printed for each of the nine party affiliations and for each township, supervisors' district and assembly district, nearly 100 different ballots must be printed.

City Manager Plan to Be Topic
Thorough discussion of the feasibility of inaugurating a city manager form of government in Santa Ana will feature tomorrow's meeting of the realty board in the Rossmore cafe.

The proposal first was brought up in a surprise remark by Ray Cuddebell, board president, at the conclusion of last week's meeting, and realtors at that time agreed to look into the plan more thoroughly this week.

Driver Cleared In Stunt Man's Death
LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Robert Whaley of Glendale was cleared today by a coroner's jury of blame in the traffic death of Kenneth Snyder, 34, film stunt man known as Jack Long.

The jury decided that Snyder's death was caused by his own negligence.

Seven Bookies Jailed In Raids
LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Continuation of raids on suspected book-making establishments today had resulted in the arrest of seven men by police and district attorney's investigators. They were taken into custody on felony book-making charges late yesterday.

DENIALS BY SOVIET that troops or planes had crossed Manchoukuo or Korean borders have been issued; a Japanese war office communique said that 250 tanks had been concentrated in the area by the Red Army. Above is a Russian soldier.

WOMEN RENEW POLITICAL PUSH

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Senator Hattie Caraway's victory in the Arkansas primary encouraged other women today in their campaigns for political positions long monopolized by men.

Her renomination had been unsuccessfully opposed by Rep. John L. McClellan, who said that serving in the senate is "a man's job."

The senior Arkansas senator only woman ever elected to that office by popular vote, always has contended that senators should serve, not as men or women, but as citizens.

A similar viewpoint has been expressed by her five women colleagues in the house of representatives, all of whom are seeking re-election. The women lawmakers say they serve their districts with the same efficiency that would be shown by men of similar qualifications.

Rep. Nan Honeymay of Oregon and Rep. Virginia E. Jorgensen of Indiana, both Democrats, already have been renominated. Three other congresswomen seeking renomination are Rep. Mary E. Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, who steered the wage-hour bill through the house; Representative Caroline O'Day, Democrat, New York, and Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican, Massachusetts.

Two other women already have won places on the November congressional ballots. Mrs. Ruth Hollingshead defeated two male opponents for a Democratic nomination in Iowa, and Mrs. Elsie Stanton of Wellston, Ohio, won in the Democratic primary for Ohio's tenth district Tuesday.

German Airliner Hops Atlantic In 25 Hours

Italians Silent On Warning

LONDON, (AP)—Great Britain was disclosed today to have called Italy's attention to "certain allegations" that she has sent new troops to help the Spanish insurgents despite her understanding with Britain and her non-intervention commitments.

The matter was brought to the Italian government's attention both here and in Rome. Italy has not replied.

Britain pointed out that France was "placed in a very embarrassing position" by the allegations—made by opposition members of parliament before parliament's recent adjournment.

France has closed her frontier to war materials for government clamoring for reopening of the frontier, contending Italy is continuing to supply aid to insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The British step made even more remote the prospect that the British-Italian friendship accord, signed last Easter, soon might go into effect. It was to become operative after the Spanish problem was solved and Italy recently had been urging Britain to put it into force.

On July 29, the day the House of Commons recessed for the summer, Frederick S. Coombs, labor member, asked Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain if he was aware "substantial reinforcements in men and material had been supplied Franco from Italy in recent weeks."

Chamberlain promised to investigate the reports although he said it cannot subscribe to the accuracy of Coombs' statement.

BRITISH SHIP STRAILED
MADRID, (AP)—The British ship Stanlake was struck by machine-gun bullets today in an insurgent air raid on Valencia's harbor district, the Spanish government press agency reported.

It said the ship was not struck by bombs and there were no casualties aboard. Fifty bombs fell along the waterfront but caused no injuries.

Five buildings were destroyed at Alicante, south of Valencia, in another air raid by five Italian-type insurgent bombers. Six persons were injured.

REBELS DRIVE ON MINES
HENDAYE, France, (AP)—A two-pronged insurgent attack bit today at the Almaden mining country in southwestern Spain. One of the Spanish government's wealthiest areas and the world's richest mercury-yielding region.

One column driving northeast reported it captured Almorchon, giving insurgents control of a railroad from Almaden 42 miles west of Castuera and a branch line from Almorchon south toward Belmez in Cordoba.

Another column operation farther north along the Guadiana river valley said it made a seven-mile advance in 12 hours and captured six small towns.

Conflicting reports obscured the progress of battle in eastern Spain along the Ebro and Segre rivers, where insurgents said they were cleaning up rapidly the gains made in a government offensive the past two weeks.

'King of Hoboes' Studies for Films
HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Jeff Davis, "king of American hoboes," studied for his first film role today.

Brought to Hollywood to advise Bob Burns on hobo scenes in "The Arkansas Traveler," Davis was offered a part.

"It can't be as tough as talking to a railroad dick," said he, in acceptance. "Why, I've addressed sociology classes at Dartmouth and wasn't scared."

East-West Trip Ends In N. Y.

NEW YORK, (AP)—Completing the first non-stop flight between Berlin and New York westward over the North Atlantic ever attempted, the four-motored German transport plane "Brandenburg" came to rest on Floyd Bennett airport today at 2:53 p. m. (EST).

The 19-ton machine, which normally carries 24 passengers but carried only a four-man crew on the 3942-mile trip from the German capital, had been in the air for exactly 25 hours.

The official time of the flight was 24 hours 54 minutes, however, because arrival was timed by its passage over the field administration building. The ship circled the field several times before landing.

Its takeoff unannounced, the "Brandenburg" was on its way hours before the attempt became known generally. Once it began contacting wireless stations on this side of the Atlantic, however, its progress was charted with regularity.

It had averaged 170 miles an hour up to the time it reached Boston with Capt. Alfred Henke at the controls.

The members of his crew were Flight Capt. Rudolf Von Modeau, co-pilot; Paul Dierberg, flight engineer, and Fritz Kober, radio operator.

The offices of Deutsche Luft-hansa, which used the same type of machine on some of its European routes, said the flight was purely experimental, "to show the feasibility of commercial non-stop travel from Germany to this country."

RETURN IMMEDIATELY?
WASHINGTON, (AP)—Official circles said today Germany's huge land plane Brandenburg might undertake an immediate return flight after reaching New York from Berlin.

The decision will be made after landing, checking the four Diesel motors and weather reports, it was said. The alternative was to remain over a day or more.

NAVY AVIATOR DIES IN CRASH
NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A naval aviator was killed and an aviation cadet severely injured today when a navy plane crashed at the operating base.

The plane was attached to aircraft carrier division No. 2.

McCaffery, who resigned to become general manager and chief engineer of the Sacramento municipal utility commission.

Mantz Fights Alimony Claim
LOS ANGELES, (AP)—An alimony problem involving Paul Mantz, Hollywood film flier and technical advisor to Amelia Earhart, was brought to the domestic relations court for a solution today.

The aviator contends the alimony granted Mrs. Myrtle L. Mantz was to have remained in effect only until she was remarried.

U. S., Britain 'Partners' In 2 Pacific Island Air Bases

FOUR-MONTH DISPUTE ENDS WITH PACT

WASHINGTON. (P)—A new "working agreement" for use of Canton and Enderbury Islands indicated today the United States was willing to be a partner with Great Britain in the development of transpacific aviation.

The two countries settled their four-month dispute over ownership of the tiny mid-Pacific islands yesterday by a novel arrangement to use them jointly as aviation and communication bases. The left details for future consideration, along with the question of ownership. Secretary Hull emphasized that there were no commitments on national defense.

Canton and Enderbury are prospective stepping stones on any airline between Canada or the United States and Australia and New Zealand. Their location makes them nearly as vital as the indisputably American Midway and Wake islands are to the existing aerial clipper service between California and China.

With an eye to aviation's rapid advances, the interior department, with President Roosevelt's sanction, had asserted this government's claim to Canton and Enderbury in March by putting a group of colonists on each. The islands are 32 miles apart and 1850 miles southeast of Honolulu.

The same procedure had been followed in 1936 in the case of Howland, Baker and Jarvis islands, in the same section of the world. These are less strategically situated, however, and Britain made no formal protest.

An effort toward cooperation in transpacific flying originated in Tokyo three years ago, but failed to develop any agreement with Japan.

Official circles recalled that when Pan-American Airways launched its clipper service in 1935, Tokyo made overtures for a Japanese line from Japan via Formosa to Manila, in the American Philippines, and to Hongkong, Britain's crown colony in China.

The reply contained a proviso that American and British planes in return should be permitted to land in Japan. Talks continued, however, because of nervousness over the possibilities of a wartime aerial invasion, and negotiations got no further.

GIRLS' PURSES 'BORROWED'

While Job's Daughters were in session at the Masonic temple last night, thieves or pranksters broke into an adjoining room and removed several purses, a scarf and a sweater.

Santa Ana police are investigating what some of the girls believed was a prank, inasmuch as all of the purses were recovered on the third-floor fire escape, and the scarf was found between the third floor and the roof.

As nearly as the victims could estimate, about $1.75 was removed from the purses. A member of the organization expressed the opinion that only someone familiar with the building could have played the "prank."

Ship Operators Offer Adjustment

SAN FRANCISCO. (P)—Maritime union leaders debated the offer today by West Coast steam schooner operators for prompt, informal adjustment of their differences without resorting to formal negotiation to modify expiring labor contracts.

Bruce Hannon, secretary of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, called into meeting representatives of the maritime unions to draft an answer to the invitation from Ralph W. Meyers, president of the Shipowners' Association of the Pacific Coast.

Hannon reported each union received from Meyer a letter proposing informal meetings to be held before Aug. 15 to "settle differences which have caused our members so much trouble and loss."

Democrats Hold 59 Per Cent Of Record State Registration

MARGIN RISES OVER 1936; G. O. P. 36 PCT.

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Democratic registration in California is seven and one-half per cent higher for the Aug. 30 primary than it was for the 1936 general election while the Republican figure is slightly lower, an Associated Press survey showed today.

The total registration of 3,437,242 is highest in the history of the state and 183,421 more than for the presidential election two years ago.

The Democratic registration reached the record total of 2,022,736, a gain of 140,712. A loss of 1105 dropped the Republican figure to 1,243,402. These figures were compiled from information obtained from officials in all of California's 58 counties.

Five counties—Alpine, Humboldt, Lake, Mendocino and Sonoma—registered more Republicans than Democrats. Two years ago Del Norte and Glenn counties also had Republican majorities.

Republican leaders attributed the Democratic gain mainly to the interest in the Democratic senatorial primary, a battle among five candidates, including Senator William G. McAdoo, who has the support of the national administration.

The Townsend party, not on the ballot two years ago, had an approximate total of 25,873, some counties not being included. Other minor party totals, all nearly complete, included Progressives, 11,913, a gain of 7,028; Socialist, 5553; Prohibition, 6285; and Communist 1322. The Socialist and Prohibition parties showed a slight loss in registration, while the Communists recorded a small gain.

The remainder of the registrants included 103,650 who declined state party preference and miscellaneous groups.

The Democratic party registered 58.83 per cent of the state total compared with 57.74 per cent two years ago. The Republican percentage was 36.17 compared to 38.44. Minor parties made up the remaining 5 per cent.

ARMY, G-MEN DENY SPY HUNT

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Army officials and federal bureau of investigation agents disclaimed knowledge today of any "spy hunt" centering at the army air corps base at Hamilton field.

Both sources declared unfounded, as far as they knew, reports of the theft of drawings of a secret device used in training fliers.

The San Francisco Examiner said it had "unofficial information" that groups of men were inquiring about a civilian believed seen in the area.

Federal agents declared the newspaper report "the first we've heard of this."

The newspaper article related that the drawings were removed from a vault in the office of Sgt. Maj. Henry Kramer Monday morning, and were later found under an unused desk in Kramer's office.

The plans, said the newspaper,

GIRDLER ASKS PROBE OF CIO 'INTIMIDATION'

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Tom Girdler, chairman of the board of the Republic Steel corporation, demanded today in a senate investigation of "violence and intimidation" by the CIO in last summer's "little steel" strike.

Criticizing the senate civil liberties committee investigation of the strike as being "one-sided," the blunt-spoken steel executive declared it would be only fair to subpoena CIO records to show to what use the steel workers organizing committee put a $1,500,000 fund.

Girdler, last of more than 300 witnesses examined in connection with the widespread 1937 strike, testified that he had heard "an unrecurrent rumor for months that because our company signed no contract with the CIO, the real purpose of the present session was to 'smear Republic Steel corporation' by Tom Girdler and whitewash the CIO."

Girdler asked Chairman LaFollette (Prog., Wis.) for permission to read his statement before being questioned by committee members. LaFollette denied the request, saying the committee had been refused other witnesses. The chairman added, however, Girdler could offer the statement later for introduction into the record.

Girdler said in his statement he was filing with the committee, the record of 500 cases of "violence and intimidation by the CIO" Republic, he said, is "prepared to produce hundreds of witnesses to support these charges."

"In view of these facts," he said in his statement, "I respectfully insist that the committee investigate the violations of the civil rights and liberties of American citizens by the CIO."

Girdler vigorously defended his action in refusing to sign a contract with the S. W. O. C. last year. It was this action, coupled with similar refusal by other "little steel" companies, which brought on the 1937 strike.

He said Republic officials were convinced that, (1) a majority of their employees "did not want to sign"; (2) that such a contract was "the first step toward a closed shop and the check-off."

(3) That the CIO was "not under responsible leadership and that communistic influences were dominating its activities."

"Because we took that stand and were able to maintain it," Girdler complained, "the name of Republic and the name of Tom Girdler have been held up before the country and before this committee as the embodiment of all that is wrong in the treatment of employees."

The steel executive said he was not attempting to excuse acts of violence attributed to company police in testimony previously taken by the committee.

"In requesting an investigation of the CIO," he said, "let me make it clear that I do not condone nor will I attempt to justify any reprehensible act that may be truthfully laid to anyone connected with Republic."

Extortion Suspect Jailed in L.

I Just Found Out About Orange County Hidden Treasure

By MILLARD BROWNE

The walls are lined with hidden treasures (no one could even guess at the total value), and currency or documents worth thousands sometimes get lost, but not for long, on the well-polished floor.

Behind gleaming walls and huge steel doors, underground chambers are mecca for hundreds of Santa Ana. They're the city's safe deposit vaults, and you don't get in until you recite your mother's maiden name.

Safety precautions are so elaborate that no criminal has ever tried to violate the sanctity of a Santa Ana deposit vault—but if it weren't for the precautions, the hidden wealth might be a tempting morsel for the underworld.

Biggest vault in town is under the First National bank, where 3610 safe-deposit boxes are rented at yearly figures ranging from $3 to $120 (plus a 10 per cent tax) depending on size.

To rent a box, though, you'd have to sign a contract card giving your complete description, your mother's maiden name (an added protection, since few people would be likely to know it) and your signature. And if you sign your name without the middle initial when you rent the box, you'd better use the initial when you come back, because they won't let you in if you don't.

If you've ever used a safe deposit box you know you always must sign a slip before entering the vault—even if you make daily visits. You may not know that the slips are saved 10 years, making a complete record of every time anyone goes to any box. Time is stamped on each slip, which keeps the record right down to the minute.

Standard furnishing at the First National bank (where the safe deposit vault is a separate department, managed by Mrs. Carr E. Love) is a row of booths with locked doors into which box-renters may retire to thumb through their possessions. Doors to the booths lock automatically after a booth has been used, and an attendant inspects each booth immediately after the customer leaves.

One man, in a hurry to leave the vault, left his whole safe deposit box in the booth; an attendant found it before he'd left the building. Another customer dropped a $4000 mortgage on the floor, and vault guards have found bonds and valuable certificates that less-cautious customers have left behind.

Local vaults also have big chambers to store valuable silverware, paintings, other bulky objects; during summer vacation months, the storage chambers are well filled with valuables, many of them locked in suitcases whose contents are unknown except to the owners.

When patrons rent a box, they pay a $1 key deposit, get two duplicate keys. Neither key will open the box unless an attendant is there with his master key, since each box has two locks, won't open unless both keys are inserted at once. Boxholders are asked to keep their keys separate so they won't lose both at once; if they did, a high-priced locksmith would have to force the lock in the owner's presence.

One key—the one that is to be carried around—is an identification tag on it listing the name and address of the bank, a request for finder to drop it in the nearest mail box. Local banks have had keys returned from the East coast, frequently have them sent from less distant points.

Only way contents of a safe-deposit box can fall into strange hands is by court order. Neither police nor G-men can force a box without a court order, and bank officials themselves can't get in except for non-payment of rent, and even then they need a court order.

When a boxholder dies, attendants immediately seal the box (by inserting a metal tag in the lock, and labeling their record files). Banks are subject to $20,000 fine if they knowingly let anyone have access to a deceased person's safe-deposit vault.

When the box finally is opened, it must be by the state controller's deputy (county treasurer in this case), in the presence of survivors of the deceased person, and by court order.

Majority of Santa Ana boxholders are firms (finance concerns use theirs every day) or elderly persons, and guards escort a steady stream of people through the barred doors, which open only by pressing a button from far inside.

Whole idea of the elaborate precautions is to protect customers against loss, though boxholders occasionally get slightly impatient with the rigmarole. Individuals, well-known to vault attendants, occasionally forget their keys and want to get in, but it's impossible, because the bank has no duplicate key.

Protection against fire and strong-arm tactics is as elaborate as that against confidence gags, forgeries and misrepresentations. At the First National bank, for instance, a 20-ton door (controlled by four time-clocks) guards the

WPA TO PAY $100,000 OF TOTAL COST

Reconstruction of 8000 feet of flood-wrecked 42-inch line in section one of the Orange county joint outfall sewer at a total cost of $148,000 was authorized by district directors in an executive committee meeting at Anaheim last night.

Member cities and districts will bear $48,000 of the cost, and the Works Progress administration will pay the remaining $100,000. Since work will be on an emergency basis, the project already has been approved by WPA. The executive committee approved recommendation by a committee of five engineers in a special report filed recently calling for reinforced concrete pipe with a vitrified clay liner to resist sewer gases and erosion.

One link of the 8000-foot line authorized last night already has been started on an emergency schedule.

The section of conduit authorized last night runs from Victoria street to Adams road south of the old screening plant in section one of the joint outfall.

Reconstruction of the four-mile Anaheim line, comprising section two of the sewer, is half finished. City Engineer E. P. Haggood of Anaheim reported to the executive committee.

Outfall directors approved an agreement with the county hospital for its use of the sewer line at the rate of $1200 a year, starting Jan. 1. The hospital, which has used the line without permission for the past 10 years, now is negotiating with the city of Orange to pay for use of the sewer during that time.

CANDIDATES THICK AT G. G. BOOSTER MEET

GARDEN GROVE.—Stressing the need for more friendliness and unified action, not only in the individual community but in the county, J. B. Tucker, chairman of the city-county relations committee of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce, addressed 150 persons, many of them political candidates, attending the booster dinner of the Garden Grove chamber of commerce last night.

The chamber of commerce and the service clubs, he added, have a distinct place in the community; and towns without them are as a whole very unsuccessful. Friendship, he said, comes from getting the other fellows point of view.

Striking a humorous note, he proposed an organization of candidates, with Assessor James S. Sleeper as president and Supervisor N. West as secretary. As there would be no money to handle, he quipped, no treasurer would be needed.

Chamber President H. Clay Kellogg and Dick Haster, president of the Lions club, both welcomed the guests. H. A. Lake returned thanks before the dinner. Following dinner Kellogg presented Jack Crill as master of ceremonies, and he in turn introduced the candidates, E. J. Tobias, junior past president of the chamber, who reviewed the past years accomplishments, and Judge Tucker.

SUIT BROUGHT BY TEACHER IS PROLONGED

Indications that trial of Miss H. Ina Gerritt's suit for permanent teacher tenure in the Fullerton Union high school district would drag well into next week were seen today, when Louis Plummer, Fullerton school superintendent, was called back to the stand in superior court for the third successive day.

The case is being heard by Superior Judge C. E. Beaumont of Fresno, sitting in department two of the superior court in the absence of vacationing Judge James L. Allen.

Plummer was the first witness called when the case opened yesterday, and it was indicated he would be kept on the stand for the remainder of the day.

Stanley Reinhaus, Santa Ana attorney, is representing Miss Gerritt, and Assn. Dist. Atty. Preston Turner and Albert Launer, counsel for the high school directors, are defending the district, which Miss Gerritt alleges hired her in the name of the junior college district merely as a subterfuge to prevent her acquiring permanent status.

CROSS MY HEART

by Allen Epper

Cynthia Glenn is unpredictable. Hence, Peter Moore, in love with her, is not surprised by her latest "crazy scheme." In her absence, he has rented her ancestral home to the newly-rich Mrs. Potter-Payne, who is trying to create "background" for herself with the hope of marrying her daughter and son, Irene and Tommy, to an Englishman and his sister, Bruce and Beatrice Kerr, her house guests. Cynthia, deciding to turn author and put the Potter-Paynes in a book, secretly returns. Disguising herself with glasses, and calling herself "Jennie Smith, friend of Cynthia Glenn's," she becomes Mrs. Potter-Payne's secretary. She discovers that the Kerrs are in financial straits and, when some silverware is stolen, she suspects Bruce. Meanwhile, Irene, spurning Bruce, has been playing about with Peter. Her mother, upset by this development, asks Cynthia to play up to Bruce and make Irene jealous. Cynthia does so.

CHAPTER XXIX

CYNTHIA'S walk through the pine woods with Bruce proved to be decidedly boring from her point of view. He persisted in talking of nothing but Irene, singing her praises extravagantly. Cynthia was not only bored, but she had no opportunity to ask the leading questions that she had hoped might trick Bruce into giving her a clue about her silver spoons.

She almost wished she hadn't asked him to come with her, and was relieved when they reached her aunt's cottage.

Leaving him outside, she went in alone.

"Any mail for me, Aunt Kate?" "Yes—two letters. Back there in the room with your typewriter."

Cynthia started back to get them, but her aunt detained her. "Wait a minute, Cynthia—Aggie Brown phoned a few minutes ago. She's suspicious again. She said that her niece that freckled little Smith into the discard."

"One of your letters today was from that publishing house."

"It is! Why didn't you tell me?" "Well, anyway," said Miss Kate "I simply told Aggie that you must have a double around here. But, honestly, Cynthia, I'm getting right tired of having to lie for you."

Cynthia patted her arm. "Never mind, honest. I'll be able to be myself soon. I've gathered nearly all the material I need for my book and I've sent several chapters to Mr. Warren. Soon I'll toss Jennie Smith into the discard."

CITRUS GAINS REPORTED BY WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON. (AP)—California's citrus outlook improved during July, the Agriculture department's monthly report showed today. Similar gains were reported in Florida.

Condition of California valencias, navels and miscellaneous varieties on Aug. 1 was reported better than last year and above the 10-year average, with weather conditions favorable. Florida varieties were listed as the same as a year ago and four points above the 1927-28 average, aided by ample rainfall and good weather.

In lower Texas, the department said, rainfall was light, but trees were still in good condition in some groves not irrigated. Arizona oranges were unchanged, the report disclosed.

Grapefruit generally was above average and, except in Arizona, above the condition on the same date a year ago. No forecasts of production were made.

Vacation Ends

COSTA MESA.—Mr. and Mrs. Karl C. Burdick and daughter, Ruth Burdick Williams, have returned from a week's vacation in General Grant and Sequoia National parks, and Kings River canyon. Miss Williams, who is spending her vacation with her parents, is engaged in concert work in New Jersey.

been so high. And now this! After all the trouble she had taken to gather material—after all the hard work she had done.

Numbly she said the upsetting letter and picked up the other one. Her interest perked up a bit when she recognized the handwriting of Rita Carter, the girl who had introduced her to Gerald Warren, the girl with whom she had shared an apartment in New York.

She opened the letter and read:

Darling: I'm a married woman! What do you think of that? Gerald Warren and I took every one, including ourselves by surprise. Isn't it thrilling? We're sailing tomorrow with our new boat, and are as happy as a pair of kids! Confidentially, I'm glad you left New York, my dear, for I think Gerald was halfway in love with you, and I might never have won him if you hadn't been there. Must rush now. Heaps of love from both of us.

For several moments, Cynthia sat staring at Rita's letter, startled by the news it contained. Then, slowly, a realization dawned on her. Could it be that Gerald Warren had encouraged her to write only because he was "halfway in love" with her? Could it be that he hadn't really expected her to take him seriously?

Oh, what a little fool she had been! Of course she shouldn't have taken him seriously! It had all been so casual and informal. She should have known that he was just saying kind things because he liked her.

FILLED with bitter disappointment, she slowly tore the two letters into bits and threw them in the trash basket. Well, that was that! There went her career!

She had a sudden longing to see Peter—to bury her head on his shoulder and find comfort in his arms—even though he would say, "I told you so." Then, she remembered that Peter was out driving with Beatrice—remembered the way he had been beaming Irene.

Had she, in her foolishness, lost even Peter? Had she put him off so long that she had lost him out of his patience and his love? Was she going to be left with neither a career—nor Peter?

She rose torridly and went to read the news to her aunt.

"Goodness me, Cynthia!" exclaimed Miss Kate. "What a mess! 'You look all washed out! What's the matter?'"

"Oh, nothing much," Cynthia said wryly. "Except that I've just found out that, as a writer, I'm a first-class dummhead!"

Miss Kate grasped her arm. "Cynthia! You mean there was bad news in that letter from the publisher? What—what did he say?"

"I'll tell you all about it later," Cynthia bent and kissed her aunt.

"Bruce Kerr is waiting for me now, and I must hurry home to see that dinner is on time." She added bitterly, "It may be the last meal in the Potter-Payne household that Jennie Smith supervises!"

"Oh Cynthia, I'm sorry things have gone wrong!"

"You'd better get my room ready for me! I'll probably be coming here to stay with you very soon."

Mrs. Tubbs and Mrs. Backus Are Hostesses At Yacht Club

White sails bobbing across the blue waters of Newport bay created a vista of beauty for guests of Mrs. Dixon W. Tubbs and Mrs. John Backus yesterday afternoon when they were hostesses at one of the most enjoyable parties of the summer season. They chose the smart setting of the Yacht club in which to entertain more than half a hundred matrons at luncheon and bridge, and cleverly emphasized the marine colors of the natural background and the clubhouse's appointments with their own decorative motif.

Bowls of exquisite shaggy white asters, large as giant chrysanthemums, were spiked with the brilliant blue of delphinium stalks, and were placed at intervals along the V-shaped tables, alternating with bubble bowls in which floated single aster blossoms. Highlighting these were double pottery candlesticks bearing tall blue tapers.

After the delightful luncheon interlude within, guests adjourned to the breeze-cooled deck of the clubhouse, where tables were laid for contract scores being tallied on smart little cards bearing the Yacht club insignia.

At the close of the afternoon three especially beautiful prizes were presented to the high scorers. For her superiority, Mrs. Joseph Daniger received an exquisite gold filigree compact, while second high, Mrs. Ray Chandler, was presented with a lovely pendant and matching bracelet in antique gold set with onyx. Mrs. George Satter, third high, won another smart compact.

Mrs. Tubbs and Mrs. Backus received their guests at the beginning of the afternoon in the comfortable lounge, the former presiding over a group of Town-set women, in which Mrs. Lyman and Mrs. Shaver also participated.

Since it was the actual anniversary of Mrs. Lyman and Mrs. Shaver, they received gifts of flowers as well.

Will Help You With Your Clothes Problem. Write Her!

Dear Grace F.—Stockings for fall are going to carry, necessarily, in their color cast. And that is because of the many new colors in fall costumes. The ideal to strive for is a leg that is tawny-tan—quite like we have been wearing. Only, winter legs are always a bit darker than summer legs—just as clothes are! But with wine tones, for instance, your hose cannot be then—to blend. But with copper or green costumes, on the other hand, tawny legs with a copper cast will be most effective! With black, hose will be a shade darker and duller.

MARY HAMPTON
Dear M. L. K.—I rather think it would be wise to go prepared for some lingering hot fall days in Salt Lake City as well as early cool ones. But nights are apt to be cool on account of altitude.

The first thing to do is find a smart print or sheer ensemble on sale, and snatch it. You will be able to wear it lots still this fall, and for the first hot spell in the spring too. Most of us get taken unaware then. And this will also be wisest for the train trip over. I am afraid it will be too early for the fur coat. Have you no light coat you could carry? And when the weather is cool. Beside these I'd take a smart dark afternoon dress or two with accessories and at least one dark, simple evening gown.

MARY HAMPTON.

Mrs. West Compliments Mrs. Oliver

A delightful courtesy was extended yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Franklin West when she entertained informally in honor of Mrs. Gerald "Tex" Oliver of Eugene, Ore., a former Santa Ana.

Mrs. West invited close friends of the popular matron, whose husband has recently been appointed head coach at the University of Oregon, for luncheon, and the eight some greatly enjoyed hearing Mrs. Oliver's description of her new home, to which she will return in a few weeks.

Delicate bouvardia made a pretty table centerpiece, with colorful gladioli and roses elsewhere in the house.

At bridge Mrs. G. K. Scovel was the winner of a dainty prize presented her by Mrs. West at the close of the afternoon. Others at the pleasant affair were Mrs. George Baker of Balboa, Mrs. Neil Raney and Mrs. Milburne Harvey of Laguna, Mrs. Douglas Paterson, and Mrs. Ralph Cole, also a former Oregonian whose husband has joined the coaching staff at Eugene.

MRS. THRASHER IS HOSTESS TO I. T. U. WOMEN

Auxiliary to the International Typographical Union held its monthly business meeting in the home of Mrs. C. C. Thrasher, Orange Park acres, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Thrasher had decorated her home with many blossoms from her rose garden, and served refreshments, following the meeting, on individual trays.

The next meeting of the group will be its monthly social gathering which is to be held at the home of Mrs. Dean Lawrence, Anaheim.

Present Tuesday were Mrs. Clayton, Mrs. L. K. Maxwell, Mrs. C. A. Rousseau, Mrs. E. W. Ellis, Mrs. E. Y. Taylor, Mrs. V. C. Shidler, Mrs. G. W. Duke, Mrs. C. E. Fisher, Mrs. J. W. Parkinson, and the hostess, Mrs. Thrasher.

PRETTY PARTY HOSTESSED BY MRS. TRUITT

Perfectly appointed and charmingly hostessed was a little bridge luncheon given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. James Truitt, as a courtesy to Santa Anans who have entertained her since she moved here in the early spring from La Jolla.

Mrs. Truitt's home on West Tenth street was decorated with smart arrangements of zinnias, and her two luncheon tables had clever bowls of yellow sweetpeas, canna's and asters centering them.

At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Herbert Stroschein won a lovely crystal bowl with frosted grapes in it, and Mrs. Claude Brakebill was winner of a set of hurricane lamps. Mrs. Brakebill was also the fortunate winner of the traveling prize for slams bid and made.

Guests of Mrs. Truitt were Mrs. Stroschein, Mrs. Brakebill, Mrs. Ronald Crookshank, Mrs. Harold Dale, Mrs. Ray Tarr, Mrs. Fred Burlew, Jr., and Mrs. George Walker.

MARY STODDARD

Promiscuity Doesn't Help Friendship Between Boy and Girl

Petting does spoil friendship between boys and girls! The boy who expects, and sometimes demands, a goodnight kiss from the girl he has escorted for the evening is thinking of himself, not the girl.

Don't let anyone tell you that promiscuous petting will win you a husband, girl. It will win you notoriety and perhaps a lot of careless dates among the boys who will hear that you will pet.

Recently a 19-year-old girl who was in doubt brought this kissing subject up and today another girl answers her:

Dear Miss Stoddard: I just couldn't help responding to the recent letter of "Nineteen." I have read so many articles on this subject and I believe it is hard for a girl to decide whether there are any girls left that are virtuous. Of course there are. Lots of them. Some don't reveal it—but they hold the same ideals that grandmother did. Perhaps the best example I can give is that of myself. I am 18 years old, considered good-looking, have a reasonable amount of boy friends, and have never been kissed and I'm proud of it as much as any other girl I know are.

It is almost expected for the boy you go out with to ask you for a kiss, and as you said Miss Stoddard, there are as many ways of refusing a kiss as there are to a woman's heart. Last year I met a nice boy who took me to a movie and asked for a kiss when he took me home.

I explained to him I was saving my kisses for my future husband. He's been taking me out ever since and just a week ago he said, "You know, Nan, I've never had so much fun with any other girl as I have had with you—and when we go out we really enjoy ourselves. I think you're awfully smart not to kiss boys because that spoils everything, doesn't it?" I know that this boy admires and respects me as I do him and the other boys who are like he is.

"Petting" always spoils good friendship and marks the girl as being just a "other" "Kissable Jane," not saying what it does to her character. Your type of old-fashioned girl, Miss Stoddard is always popular and always will be. Sincerely, JUST NANCY.

Colored lights swinging above the vine-enclosed summer house, and comfortable lawn chairs added to the pleasure of the misses and matrons who gathered for the event.

Miss Fern Berkner presided at a brief business meeting in the absence of Mrs. Terry Stephenson, Jr., who is vacationing in Canada, and the hostesses served a pretty dessert course, which was served in buffet style.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF MARKET ATTRACTS 175

The city within a city went picnicking last night. It was the annual barbecue of the Grand Central market gang, with proprietors and helpers in the various Grand Central establishments, together with their families, pouring 175 persons into Santiago park for an evening of feasting, entertainment and games.

A full-course barbecue dinner was prepared for the market gang with Charles Miller, restaurant proprietor, supervising the cooking.

Highlights of the program that followed were a series of baffling magic stunts by Clyde Rowland, Santa Ana sign man and amateur magician; and a xylophone solo by Fay Hunt, talented Garden Grove musician.

Pickup teams competed in a rousing game of softball, with Johnny Bowman providing comedy relief during the contest.

Besides Miller, the Grand Central committee in charge of arrangements included Market Manager Jack Boardman, Art Weller, Wayne Reafsnider and Morrison.

25 RESCUED ON LAKE ERIE

CLEVELAND. (AP)—Twenty-five persons in six boats, missing on storm-lashed Lake Erie, were rescued or made their way to safety today.

The last to be found safe were six members of a Mansfield, O., fishing party, including three ministers of the United Lutheran church, who cruised into Sandusky under their own power after pulling into Middle island to ride out the storm. They had rescued two men from Sandusky in a helplessly-drifting boat.

7-Year-Old Hired by WPA; 'Clerical Error' Blamed

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A second-grade school boy, hired and fired from a road laborer's job on a Works Progress administration road project, got attention from WPA district officials today.

Lyell L. Buttermore, district WPA district officials today, $6.54 check was made out to 7-year-old Richard Malone because of a "clerical mistake" in copying his father's record.

Buttermore said he was investigating the identity of a man who reported with 400 others on the project, "apparently someone among the boy's family or acquaintances who reported for work under his name."

The youngster was unaware he even had a job. Buttermore said the check has been revoked and

Richard's brother, Albert, 20, has been placed on the same project to which Richard had been "assigned."

The Malone family, living at Smithfield, nine miles from here, displayed a certificate of "termination of employment." The explanation, over Buttermore's signature, read, "resigned for reasons unknown. Absent five days."

Members of the family said Richard received a letter from the WPA office demanding an explanation of why he had not reported for work. When he didn't explain, they said, the dismissal notice came.

And, they asserted, they were removed from the relief rolls because of the "support" given them by the youngster.

She broke the double national round record of 883 with a score of 939.

11,000 CLERICS DIE IN SPAIN, SAYS BISHOP

NEW YORK. (AP)—The slaying of at least 11,000 clerics was charged against Spanish government forces today by the Rt. Rev. Karl Joseph Alter, bishop of Toledo, O.

Bishop Alter, who returned from the Eucharistic Congress at Budapest, said he had spent four weeks behind the lines of General Franco studying conditions among the civilian population.

In the province of Huesca, he said, he found only four churches left out of 11 that stood before the civil war began.

"The reds smashed the altars and burned the churches," he said. "They not only did that but they desecrated the cemeteries, violated the graves, and opened the tombs above ground, dragged out the bones and in some cases used the tombs to make their beds in."

Bishop Alter said that while in Spain he met Brig. Gen. Henry Riley, U. S. army, retired, who reviewed the Franco troops and reported that out of 600,000 only 40,000 were foreigners. On the other hand, he said he had reliable information that 200,000 foreigners, including Americans, were fighting on the government side.

L. A. School Fund Tangle Ended

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Los Angeles county's school budget stood today at $41,500,000 for 1938-39, following its adoption late yesterday after a court decision had cleared the way.

With one dissenting vote, the board passed the budget, which had been under attack in a suit filed by David E. Hinckle, lawyer and taxpayer, who sought a writ of mandate to compel elimination of $5,682,000 on the ground that many illegal and unnecessary items were included.

The writ was denied by Superior Judge Jess E. Stephens. The county counsel's office called attention to the fact that the deadline for adoption was last midnight, and that the district might lose $18,000,000 in state and county funds by not complying with the law.

COUNTY RECORDER

Let The People Judge

The people are the best judges of the integrity of the sheriff and the efficiency of his office.

Through their agent, the grand jury, the people have repeatedly examined the office of Sheriff Logan Jackson.

HERE ARE THEIR FINDINGS:

(1937-38 grand jury report)

"Sheriff Jackson has always exhibited a steady devotion to the cause of law enforcement and a determination to maintain public order and public safety under all circumstances. We find every reason to commend his administration."

(1936-37 grand jury report)

"In investigating the sheriff's department, we found that it is being conducted in an efficient manner. . . . In reporting on our investigation of this department, we wish to emphasize the fact that Sheriff Jackson is making a conscientious effort in conducting his office."

(1935-36 grand jury report)

"This department (sheriff's) operates a radio broadcasting station which appears to be handled in a most efficient manner. The sheriff and county officials are to be commended for realizing the necessity for, and providing, this essential adjunct which promotes and facilitates contacts from the office to patrolmen."

(1934-35 grand jury report)

"The grand jury is pleased to report that it has found the sheriff's office conducted properly."

(1933-34 grand jury report)

"The sheriff's office was found to be handled in a very efficient manner and we feel that Orange county is fortunate in having a man of the character and ability of Logan Jackson in charge of the department."

(1932-33 grand jury report)

"We find that the sheriff's office is being operated in a businesslike manner."

(1931-32 grand jury report)

"The sheriff's office is being operated in a fair and impartial manner."

Critics of the sheriff may and frequently have ulterior motives. The grand jury is impersonal and has the means of finding the facts.

Drive To Curb Indigent Migration
Opened By Chamber Of CommerceCOMMITTEE
URGES STATE TO
'DO SOMETHING'

Charging that the state's low requirements for relief recipients and high minimum relief pay act as a "natural magnet" to attract indigents from the Dust Bowl area, the indigent committee of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce today has launched a drive to get the state, rather than the federal government, to "do something" about the problem.

The indigent committee met in the chamber office yesterday, with chamber of commerce representatives from other Orange county cities participating in the discussion.

Secretary Howard Wood was authorized to send a letter to Kern and Los Angeles county chambers, which have taken the initiative in attacking the indigent problem, claiming that "corrective measures" must be taken by the state, rather than the federal government, and urging that these groups proceed along that line.

Committees urged that both state and federal action be taken to curb the influx of indigents from the Middle West, but it was indicated the only plausible action would be by initiative. Since it would be too late for an initiative measure to qualify for this year's ballot, the campaign would be geared to the 1940 general election.

The discussion was conducted by Clarence Holles, chairman of the indigent committee. Others attending: William C. Jerome, E. B. Sharpley, J. B. Utt and C. J. Marks, of Santa Ana; August E. Schumacher and C. H. Atwell, Anaheim; J. G. Dempsey and Joseph Hasner, Los Alamitos; B. H. Latham, San Clemente, and H. M. May, Fullerton.

G-MAN ENTERS
MURDER TRIAL

SOUTH PARIS, Me. (AP)—Paul N. Dwyer, 19-year-old "lifer" and principal accused of former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll, who is on trial for the murder of Dr. James G. Littlefield, elderly country physician, also charged Carroll with attempted extortion.

This was revealed today by Attorney General Franz U. Burkett, called as a defense witness, who also injected into the case the shadow figure of a "G-man."

Burkett testified he was present in the state prison when Dwyer was questioned at length by Charles Pelletier who showed "his credentials as a G-man."

Dwyer, as the state's star witness, accused Carroll of strangling not only the physician but also his wife. The bodies of both were found in an automobile with the youth when he was arrested at North Arlington, N. J., last autumn.

Burkett had been actively interrogating witnesses for the state before he himself was called to the stand.

Line Near Stanton; Strike
Negotiations at Standstill

With estimates of the number of Mexican field workers involved in the current strike for 30-cent hourly wages still ranging from 100 to 1000, strike conditions today remained orderly and peaceful, but still deadlocked.

B. S. Nurada, Japanese rancher of the Stanton district, asked for a sheriff's patrol yesterday to break up a picket line that blocked Katella road west of Stanton.

Several carloads of strikers were stopping Mexican workers and warning them not to go to work for less than 30 cents an hour, deputies reported, but there was no sign of trouble. Several of the laborers continued to the fields and others remained behind.

KNIFE FIGHT
JAILS LABORER

Panfilio Delgado, 51, Anaheim laborer, awaited preliminary hearing in Anaheim justice court today on charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm as the result of a knife fight that sent Alfonso Herrera to the county hospital.

The fight occurred at 1119 North Lemon street in Anaheim Tuesday night, and Delgado was arrested early yesterday morning. He was arraigned in Anaheim city court yesterday, and Judge Tausch set bail at $1000. Preliminary hearing was set for 9:30 a. m. Saturday.

With Herrera still confined to the county hospital, the complaint against Delgado was signed by Herrera wife.

Cook expressed concern over the probable loss of Merle Hapes, Garden Grove backfield star, to the University of Oregon.

'Charlie Chan'
Leaves $50,000 to
Estranged Wife

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11. (AP)—Warner Oland, filmland's "Charlie Chan," bequeathed most of his estimated $50,000 estate to his estranged wife, his attorneys disclosed today.

In a will made in May, 1937, two months after his separation from Mrs. Edith Shearn Oland, the actor named her as his chief beneficiary.

The fact that he never changed it substantiates recent reports that the Olands, married for 20 years, were on the verge of a reconciliation.

Mrs. Oland was preparing to rush to her husband's bedside when pneumonia ended his life in Sweden last Saturday. They had no children.

BALLOTS FOR ABSENT VOTE
READY HERE

Balloting for the Aug. 30 primary election had started today—by voters who will be unable to cast ballots at the polls on election day.

More than 1000 Orange county voters may take advantage of the opportunity to vote even though they will not be able to visit the polls.

County Clerk B. J. Smith yesterday began taking applications for absentee ballots, which may be cast up to and including election day.

They may either be voted at the Clerk's office or mailed there, provided they are signed by the voter before a notary public.

This year, absentee ballots will not have to be marked with a rubber stamped "X," formerly required. The stamp pads, which cost 10 cents each, formerly had to be sent with each absentee ballot. This year ballots may be marked with pen or pencil or in indelible pencil, according to a new state law.

DISSENSION IN UNION TOLD

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Strife within and without the AFL teamsters' union—that was the picture painted for jurors in a trial of nine officers and members of the organization entering its third day today.

Beatings were pictured by Paul McKnight, one of the original defendants, who turned state's evidence after pleading guilty shortly after the trial opened. McKnight admitted he was a member of the "goon squad" of the union, taking orders from President Dexter Lewis.

On one occasion, he said, Lewis instructed him to join a Zellerbach Paper company warehouse picket line. When, on the third day, a CIO picket line was established, McKnight testified baseball bats were distributed and "21 carloads of us went down to the plant."

"There were two men running and pulling picket bands off their arms," he declared. "We knew they were CIO men and I believe Dalt Roberts and Russell Denning got those two."

Mr. Taylor began his public life as a member of the Nebraska legislature from Central City, where he published the Central City Nonpareil. DAMAGE SUIT
NEARS JURY

Trial of a $30,363.39 damage suit growing out of an accident last Nov. 10 involving a fertilizer truck and a San Diego county car was expected to go to a superior court jury late today or early tomorrow, as defense attorneys wound up a spirited cross-examination of a San Diego physician.

Wood F. Worcester, San Diego county probation officer, and his wife, Daisy Lee Worcester, are asking $30,000 for injuries allegedly received in a collision between their car and a fertilizer truck driven by John Earl Beck at Seventeenth street and Tustin avenue. The county of San Diego is asking $363.39 for damages to the car which Mrs. Worcester was driving.

Dr. F. G. Lindemulder, testifying as to the plaintiffs' injuries, was undergoing a stiff cross-examination by Harry Parker and Richard Reese, Los Angeles attorneys representing Beck and H. E. Krueger, co-defendant and owner of the truck. Wayne Compton, San Diego, is representing the plaintiffs.

BUDGET CALLS FOR MILLIONS
TO BE SPENT

A 26 per cent rise in county tax rates over last year threatened today, as County Auditor W. T. Lambert published details of a budget calling for nearly $2,000,000 to be raised by county taxes and a total of $4,160,216 for general county and special district taxes this fiscal year.

A rise of 21 cents per $100 assessed valuation was indicated for general county government, with the rate on property inside cities rising from 81 cents per $100 to $1.02 per $100. On property outside cities, taxpayers will pay an additional two cents for the county library and two cents for road districts, a reduction of one cent per $100 on the former since last year.

INCREASES LISTED

Detailed statements in Lambert's figures showed the entire 21-cent rise in all taxes directly caused by the increased county budget. Total taxes for special districts will drop slightly from last year.

Largest items causing the tax rise, according to budget requests which have not yet been adopted, are:

A rise of 6.4 cents per $100 for county salaries.
A rise of 3.2 cents for running the county hospital.
A rise of 3 cents for county welfare.

A rise of 1.5 cents for the county general fund.

A rise of 1 cent for interest and sinking funds.

A two-tenths cent rise each for county advertising and the county park.

A 5-cent tax levy to establish an unbudgeted reserve, whacked from last year's budget and the previous surplus used for flood repairs.

INTEREST CHARGE

In addition to the regular levy for flood control work, which supervisors recently pledged themselves to use exclusively for levee rebuilding, a 14-cent rate will be levied for interest on the $1,455,000 in flood control district bonds sold this year. This rate is planned to raise an interest fund of $162,225.

Today's general county funds of $1,928,577 will be required from taxation this year, according to the budget estimates, as compared with $1,490,702 for 1937-38.

Taxation in areas outside incorporated cities will raise an additional $51,985 for the four road districts and the county library. Last year this item was $43,999. Special district budgets, including schools, districts, harbor, flood control and all other special organizations formed within the county for public purposes, will require $2,179,654, as compared with $2,221,333 last year.

WELFARE COST IS UP

General cost of government, including schools, is estimated at $1,545,502 as compared with actual expenses for last year of $9,170,392 and for 1936-37 of $9,215,645.

Largest item in this year's budget is a proposed fund of $1,705,217 for welfare, of which $631,462 will be raised by taxation. The rest will come from federal and state money.

Last year's welfare expense was $1,414,852, of which $560,966 was raised by taxes.

Other amounts to be raised by taxation this year are $490,457 for county general fund, $332,191 for salaries, $47,808 for health, $255,084 for the county hospital, $64,610 for interest and sinking, $6655 for advertising, $17,310 for the county park, and $85,000 for the unbudgeted reserve.

LIONETTES BEAT YOUNG'S 3-1, GAIN LEAD

Armstrong-Ambers Bout Rained Out, Set Aug. 17

Keeps Title Another Week, Anyway

LIGHTWEIGHT RIVALS WILL MIX INDOORS

NEW YORK. (P)—Henry Armstrong finally has been stopped, but it took a good, soaking rain to do it.

He and Lou Ambers were all ready to climb into the ring for their lightweight title scrap last night at the Polo Grounds when a drizzle turned into a downpour and Promoter Mike Jacobs declared a week's armistice.

Taking no chances on another rebuff from the weather, Mike transferred the bout indoors to Madison Square Garden, where the pair will meet next Wednesday night. This was the fight's second postponement, it having been set up from the original date of June 26 when Ambers returned from the west coast with an injury.

WANTED INDOOR FIGHT

The transfer to the Garden pleased Armstrong right down to the ground. Both the little negro and his portly manager, Eddie Mead, wanted to fight Ambers there all along, but the light-weight king insisted upon an outdoor setting, figuring it would require at least a half park to hold the crowd.

He doesn't need to worry about that now. There probably weren't more than 5000 customers rattling around in the Giants' parlor when the rain came last night, and there were none to speak of on the outside trying to get in.

Jacobs, a pained expression on his face, did his best to get the thing over with. As it began to drizzle shortly before the first preliminary was due, he dispatched messengers to Armstrong and Ambers, telling them to prepare to go on at a moment's notice. He had the ring lights snapped on and invited what few ringers there were to go back and sit under the covered stands, which they did. But then it began to come down in earnest, soaking the canvas of the ring, and Ambers reluctantly said enough.

It will remain one of boxing's little mysteries why the fans have viewed the fight with such steady apathy.

MARVEL OF AGE

After all, Armstrong, holder of the featherweight and welterweight titles, is the marvel of the age, with 38 straight victories to his credit, and Ambers has been a useful, if not sensational, lightweight champion since 1936.

Perhaps another week's ballyhoo will help matters, but it's doubtful. Once a boxing fan makes up his mind, he can be pretty stubborn. When the fight finally does fight, they are likely to do so in virtual privacy.

Today they were back at their New Jersey retreats, preparing to take up the training grind again for the battle of the cemetery.

RAIN DELAYS 'DAVIS CUP'

MONTREAL. (P)—An early morning downpour today forced postponement until tomorrow of the opening matches of the North American zone Davis cup tennis finals between Japan and Australia.

MONTREAL. (P)—Australia's Davis cup team, a nice mixture of experience and youth, started play in the North American zone Davis cup finals against Japan today, strongly favored to win.

In the first two singles matches today Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, who comprise the Australian team, met Fumitser Nakano and Jiro Yamagishi.

The same players probably will team up for the doubles Friday and on Saturday the final two singles matches will pit Bromwich against Nakano and Quist against Yamagishi.

Both teams won their first round series decisively, Japan downing Canada, 5-0, and Australia whipping Mexico by the same score.

The zone champion will qualify to meet Germany's European zone winners in the interzone finals at Brookline, Mass., starting Aug. 18. The eventual survivor will move into the challenge round against the United States.

Neither Leonard Schwartz nor Yasumine Kuramitsu, substitutes respectively on the Australian and Japanese squads, is expected to see service.

Midget Racers In Birthday Meeting

LOS ANGELES.—Night midget auto racing, founded five years ago at Loyola field, stages a 60-lap birthday party tonight at Gilmore stadium with its first promoter, Dominic Distarte, officiating as starter.

Nearly $50,000 worth of Offenhauser midgets will compete for prize money and the pilot favored to win is Bob Swanson.

Three Years Ago—Bitty Grant upset Frank Shields, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-9, 6-4, to win eastern grass courts tennis title.

NEW YORK. (P)—It was a jinx fight from the day it was signed. . . . Nobody warmed up to it. . . . It never was an outdoor show, anyway, and now they've got it where it belongs—in the Garden. . . . From the start ticket sales have lagged, which discouraged the fighters as well as their pilots and Promoter Mike Jacobs. . . . Not one in 20 ever gave Ambers a chance against Armstrong and that hurt. . . . Another thing, interest in Schmeling and Louis reached such a high peak that when the reaction set in it really set it. . . . The sports world still is talking about that fight.

Can't keep football news from sneaking onto the sport pages, boys. . . . Here's George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, predicting the 1938 season will be one of the most outstanding in history. . . . and out at Ann Arbor they're getting ready for a crowd of 75,000 for the Michigan-Michigan State game largely because of the excitement stirred by the arrival of Fritz Crisler at Michigan. . . . Arnold Herber, Green Bay Packer passing star, has gained 4738 yards (almost three miles) on his tosses since 1932. . . . And just sit back and watch Irish Carroll, Catholic U. backfield star, go for the col-lucturers in the all-star game.

Bill Terry will stand pat on the present Giant lineup for the rest of the season. . . . Pa Striling just couldn't stay out of boxing, so has taken over Harry (Moon) Mullins, recent Golden Gloves winner. . . . Mike Jacobs has completed arrangements to renew his Garden lease, but is saving the announcement until today or tomorrow. . . . They're moaning at Alabama because Jack Macchiff, regular center, has signed to play baseball with Jacksonville in the Sally league. . . . Joe McCarthy thinks the Indians will blow and that Boston and Chicago will furnish the Yanks headaches from now on.

Pittsburgh fans already have the Pirates "in". . . . They're busy getting up world series contests and all. . . . But the manager of one of the largest hotels is kicking himself because he reserved most of his place for a convention during the entire first week in October. . . . Nick Altrock, Washington's venerable coach, gives Bob Feller less than four months in the majors. . . . Washington and Lee grid fans are signing the blues because Dick Pinck, ace sophomore prospect from Pater-son, N. J., will be out of action for the first weeks of the season because of an operation this summer.

With no other reason than to finish out the season's standings and perhaps add some additional color to their three-out-of-five championship series next week, Elks and Elitiste's International Trucks engage in their final Santa Ana City league game, which closes the season to four clubs in the Municipal bowl tonight.

Montgomery Ward and Alliance Mutual Life, third and fourth place clubs which pressed both leaders throughout the split seasons, are tied for a "natural" in the opener at 7:30 o'clock.

Tonight's preview demonstration of what their series will be like next week will find both Elks and Elitiste's holding back on their pitching aces. However, the Elks will be gunning for this game in order to even up the season's series.

Soren Sorenson, high school junior, who showed promise in several games this season, will take the slab for Elitiste's against one of the Elks' many pitchers.

MORELLI FOE OF MAGILL ON '101' MAT

One of the wildest wrestling matches that has ever been staged in the Orange County Athletic club is predicted for tonight when Cecil Magill and Tony "Killer" Morelli meet in the two-out-of-three-falls no-time-limit main event. The show opens at 8:30 o'clock.

Morelli is still irked over his defeat two weeks ago at the hands of Ted Christy and is out to avenge himself on Magill, who conquered Christy last week. He is hoping that his famous Italian smother hold will be too much for Magill. Magill will depend on flying tackles and drop kicks which he used so effectively last week against the "Sunland Terror."

In the three fall, 45-minute time limit semi-windup, Yukon Jake, one of nature's noblemen, alias "Scourge of the North," returns to the wars after an absence of several months, and will clash with Murdock, of the Boston Murdock. Jake, as usual, will depend upon his Alaskan stomp to subdue the Boston Terror.

In the featured preliminary, "Bolo" Ben Pilar, speedy Filipino wrestler, meets Wayne Strommough, wrestling coach at Case college in Cleveland, O.

"String Bean" Bill Hall wrestles Jimmy Hutchinson, professional football player, in the curtain-raiser.

Warneke Pitched Miserably When Vander Meer Shone; Now Situation Is Reversed

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Editor

You never can tell in this baseball business. The fellow who draws his pay-check every two weeks from the club treasurer will tell you it's champagne one day, water the next; a limousine today, and a hitch-hike tomorrow.

They know there isn't an awful lot of difference between a pat on the back and a pop bottle out of the stands.

Take a look at a couple of this year's examples—Long Lonnie Warneke, the former Cub star and one of the few reasons the St. Louis Cardinals are still in the National league, and Johnny Vander Meer, the double-no-hit kid, whose tossing tricks earlier in the year boosted the Cincinnati Reds into the money.

For weeks, Long Lon was getting exactly nowhere. And Frankie Frisch, who has enough worries (things being what they are with the gasless gas houses) had just one more reason for his thinning grey locks.

It's not that the Cards are going anywhere at any great rate, even now. But still the six-footer from Arkansas has returned to form, gone the route in five of his last six starts, allowed just eight runs in 52 innings and won four out of five, three of them by shutouts.

Lonnie's latest was a four-hit, 5-0, whitewashing over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday in a game cut to seven innings by rain. It ended the Bucs' three-game winning streak and gave Warneke the distinction of blanking them for the first time since July 20.

Vander Meer, now, has been running just the reverse. Young Johnny tossed two no-hitters in a row, if you remember, and was instantly labeled the hottest thing to come down the pike in years.

But Johnny has failed to go the route in his last five starts, boasts just one victory in seven trips to the post since mid-July, and has been tagged for 26 runs in about 45 innings, which goes to show you how fast things can change.

Yesterday he went against the Chicago Cubs, but his boom-boom ball was belted for four runs in the eighth frame, and the happy Harnets took a 6-3 decision.

By the win, the Cubs climbed to within half-a-game of the New York Giants, who were given a neat and thorough going over by the Boston Bees, 8-2, and remained 6½ games off the Pittsburgh pace. The scheduled Philadelphia-Brooklyn night game was rained out.

The Yankees held their five-game edge in the American league by nipping the Senators, 12-11, in a wried 10-inning affair. A walk with the bases loaded forced in the winning run. Cleveland's second place Indians had to stage a five-run rally in the ninth to top the St. Louis Browns, 9-6.

Swingin' Sammy Chapman celebrated his return to the Athletics' lineup with a two-run homer that beat the Boston Red Sox, 5-3. The Chicago White Sox clubbed four pitchers for 15 hits to nose out the Tigers, 5-7.

ANGELS LOSE ACE HURLER

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Gene Lillard, pitching mainstay of the league-leading Angels, is out of the game for the rest of the season with a double fracture of his left ankle.

Trainer Frankie Jacobs of the Angels said x-ray photographs of Lillard's injury, which he received when he tripped over second base during the Angels-Hollywood 12-inning game Tuesday night, disclosed the break.

Previously it had been diagnosed as a break and then as a bad sprain.

Lillard has won 16 and lost 10 of his starts during the present season.

2000 WATCH LOIS TERRY'S 4-HIT GAME

Orange's sensational Lionettes found themselves in the driver's seat of the Major Girls' Softball league today, after polishing off Young's Market nine, 3 to 1, before an over-flow crowd of 2000 fans at Orange city park last night.

It was a heated seven-inning battle, with the Lionettes packing too much wallop while Lois Terry pitched four-hit ball to lead the Orange girls to a half-game edge over the field.

Polishing off Young's was only the first of four tasks which the Lionettes must take care of before the second half title is captured. Bank of America, Pepsi-Cola and Columbia Pictures still stand in their way.

The Lionettes ignited the fireworks in the first inning by bringing two runs across. Cordius Hamilton broke the ice with a safety on "Gabby" Young's error at first. A passed ball put her on second and she took third on Melita Forster's infield single.

Both Ruth Lee and Terry went out, but Phoebe Miller's infield hit sent Hamilton across. Miller and Forster then worked a double steal, with Forster sliding home under the throw to the plate.

Macha's triple to rightfield, a walk to Racy and Decker's infield out scored Young's single tally in the third inning.

In the fifth, Miller walked, took second and third on passed balls and was safe at home on Margaret Mast's infield bingle. The Lionettes threatened in three other innings.

In the third with two away, Miller singled and Hunt was hit by a pitched ball, but an attempted double steal went haywire. Kasui Oshiki and Forster hit safely in the fourth with two down, but Lee grounded out.

With one gone, Forster walked, Lee hit and Miller was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases, but Embree got the next two batters.

Equipoise Son Goes on Sale At Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (P)—A son of Equipoise, one of the great American horses of the last decade, which died last week, tops the list for tonight's session of the Saratoga sales.

The bay colt, by Equipoise out of imported Air Fleet, should top or come close to the record price of this year's meeting, the $22,000 paid by Mrs. Dodge Sloane to W. H. Lipscomb for a bay colt by the French stallion Kasar out of Duration, last night.

The price was the feature of last night's sales. In all, 48 head sold for $172,150, an average of $3586, the second highest average of the season.

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars entered last night's session and went to $21,500, second highest price of the night, for a dark bay colt by Bulldog-Wild Waters.

The A. B. Hancock consignment at last night's sale averaged $3943 while C. B. Shaffer's Coldstream stud sold 10 head, featured by nine of the imported Bulldog's get, for $63,063 with the Bulldog's get accounting for $38,000.

LIVING GOLD MINES . . .
Because alligators are frequent sufferers from indigestion, quantities of gold nuggets are found in their stomachs.
This is the hypothesis advanced by at least one naturalist in explanation of the amazing "living gold mines" of Panama—the tropical caymans, members of the alligator family.

These alligators, it is believed, chew on lime deposits somewhere along the river bottoms of Panama to aid digestion and occasionally swallow a nugget of gold which has washed down with the lime from some gold-bearing deposit further inland.

Natives, on killing a cayman, always open the stomach and carefully scrutinize its contents for gold. White traders in this region were long puzzled as to where the natives got the precious metal, until the strange secret of the living "mines" became known.

For Those Who Drive
If you are one of those motorists who drive too fast through our streets every day, the following open letter by G. Malcolm-Smith, in The Travelers-Protection, might interest you.

His presentation of your obligation to the safety of the little children who take the risk you and I as adults have learned to avoid, should arouse every human emotion in your system. Smith presents the picture to you in a most dramatic manner, as follows:

I saw you barely miss a little boy on a tricycle this afternoon and heard you yell, "Get the hell out of the way! Don't you know any better than to ride in the street?" He didn't answer because he hasn't learned to talk yet. So I'm going to answer for him.

No, the little boy doesn't know any better than to ride his tricycle in the street. He has been warned not to, but little boys do not always heed warnings. Some adults don't, especially traffic warnings; for example, the one limiting the speed of automobiles in city streets.

I'm going to tell you something about that little boy. He has a mother who endured considerable inconvenience, anxiety and suffering to bring him into the world. He has a father who has worked hard and made sacrifices to make him healthy and happy.

The supreme purpose of their lives is to have their little boy grow up to be a useful and prosperous man. Now stop a minute and think. I know your minutes are valuable and I know it will be hard for you to think. But try. If you should kill a child, how would you feel facing his parents? What excuse could you give them for having robbed them of their dearest possession? More important: What excuse could you possibly offer Him whose Kingdom is made up of little children?

Children, my hasty friend, were here long before you or your automobile were ever thought of. All the automobiles on earth are not worth the life of one little boy on a tricycle. Any competent garage mechanic can put a car together, however badly it's smashed, but nobody can ever put a child together once his life has been crushed out. We don't know what the little boy may someday be. But we know what you are, and it's unimportant. We could get along without you, but we can't spare a single little boy on his street.

As war economy, Japanese are breakfasting on food that costs but 5 cents. What an opening for the great American hot-dog!

A Good Job
The twelfth annual Pacific coast magazine edition of The Newport-Balboa News-Times, publications of Sam Meyer, is off the press. It is so different from the usual anniversary products that it will not be casually observed and thrown away, but will be filed for future reference and pride.

From its silver frotpiece to the appropriately blue lined Lido Isle advertisement finale, its pages unfold not only a panoramic picture of harbor development, but an historical resume of facts, progressive achievements and civic accomplishments seldom equaled when a limited population is taken into account. That such advancement has been made under such a handicap caps the success with all the more credit.

From just an ordinary beach town, the Newport-Balboa area has emerged into an important business and recreational center. The determination to develop Newport Harbor was finally carried to success only after a long and determined fight. What it spelled in business and pleasure is now being revealed in increased assessments and additional population.

All of these elements are disclosed in the anniversary edition of the Newport-Balboa News-Times.

Henry Ford says the United States never has had real prosperity. Always "just around the corner," eh, Hy?

Fruit to Europe
California is getting an object lesson this summer in the value of foreign markets. Because of drouth in Europe and war in Spain, the demand for California fresh fruit is greater in northern Europe than ever before, and shipments this summer and fall will top those of 1937 by 28 per cent, we are told.

Foreign-flag lines operating between this coast and Europe are increasing their fleets of "reefer" ships, and the huge tonnage they will carry out of our ports will have the effect of reducing surpluses and holding up prices.

Of course the domestic United States market remains of paramount importance, and foreign shipments are still a drop in the bucket by comparison. Their importance lies in the effect on domestic prices of even a relatively small foreign outlet for surpluses.

Growers will do well to remember this when they listen to partisan and ignorant attacks on the government's reciprocal trade agreements policy, which are holding and extending markets for California products in many countries.

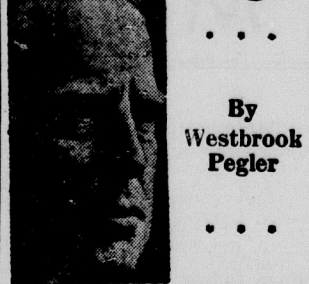

The Weary Walkers
Wichita, Kan., has a "pedestrian's clinic." Not quite as bad as it sounds, though, for this clinic is a pre-accident clinic. It undertakes to give advice to the pedestrian in order to prolong his life. It diagnoses his faults, helps correct bad walking habits, discovers shortcomings in vision, hearing or judgment.

Pedestrians, statistics show, are victims of 75 per cent of fatal accidents in 13 large American cities. In New York the percentage is 83.

"Safety" magazine, published in New York, presents the statistics and urges New York and all other cities which have heavy automobile traffic to establish such clinics to assist the pedestrian in his problem before, instead of after, an accident.

"The pedestrian," says the magazine, "is the forgotten man in the traffic safety campaign."

Fair Enough

NEW YORK.—Gene Tunney's denunciation of the Distiller Spirits institute as a thing without social consciousness or soul was a severe shock to those of us who had let ourselves believe that the institute was something really fine. The very word institute suggests solidness and unselfish purpose, and then, too, the selection of the late W. Forbes Morgan as the Will Hays of the grog industry seemed to suggest that the institute was conducting itself in accordance with the ethics of the White House. That was reassuring, too.

Mr. Morgan, an uncle of Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, had been treasurer of the democratic party, but only the diseased mind of a Liberty Leaguer would try with the thought that he was chosen for a job paying $100,000 a year for any other reason than his own special fitness. The salary was $65,000, but there was also a fund of $35,000 a year, similar to the president's own travel allowance, of which he was not required to give a minute account.

Had he used his thumb on his official travels in the interests of the spiritual side of the whisky trade, or had he driven his own car like those congressmen who collect 20 cents a mile for travel which costs them a tenth of that, the savings would have been his.

The fact that the whisky industry owed its very life to the head of the party for whose triumphs Mrs. Roosevelt's uncle had toiled had nothing to do with his selection for a $100,000 job as head lobbyist for the industry, and if those low individuals in the audience who just pursed their lips and blew a vulgar note repeat the offense they will be thrown out.

We will have decorum here and a proper respect for the crown. Mr. Morgan died before he could do much to quicken the social consciousness and kindle the soul of the whisky trade, but it can never be said of the distiller spirits institute that it failed to discern special fitness. For, in time, the institute looked about for a man to serve the same high ideals in the publicity line and with the same true instinct selected Mr. Morgan Baxter, who had worked on a New Deal campaign paper in the state of Maine in the election of 1936.

The Journal carried a message to the desk and door Yankees, but although your average citizen of Maine can hear a dollar bill drop on a feather bed on the other side of an oak door, they were deaf to Mr. Baxter's call.

The whisky trade was more responsive, however, and Mr. Baxter now draws $20,000 a year, a fact which surely will arouse no ill-will against the trade in the higher councils of the democratic party. It bespeaks a nobility which the party will not miss if Mr. Tunney does.

And even if it be granted that there were other reasons why the whisky trade created a $100,000-a-year job for an uncle of Mrs. Roosevelt and a $20,000-a-year job for another loyal worker, surely Mr. Tunney was lacking in one of the finest qualities in the soul of humankind to object to that. If Mr. Tunney has no appreciation of gratitude, then perhaps it is we that he and his own whisky firm, the American Distilling Co., withdraw from the institute and go their wolfish way alone. Gratitude is expensive, but a beautiful thing.

Devil's shoestrings trail along the whole southeastern seaboard of the United States, from New England to Texas. They aren't of any use now, but in time to come a new American industry may start from them. Promise has been counted good enough, at any rate, to justify the spending of considerable research time on the project.

S. department of agriculture tells what they found in a new technical bulletin.

Devil's shoestring is a plant. It belongs to the pea family, and it is known by such other names as rabbit bean, turkey pea, and goat's rue. Botanists call it Tephrosia. It looks rather like a vetch, only bigger.

In the tough, woody roots of devil's shoestring chemists have found the same compound now obtained from the roots of derris and cubé, imported in quantities from America, East Indies and tropics America, for use in making sprays to kill flies, mosquitoes, and other insects; hence its popularity as a spray ingredient.

This discovery of rotenone in the roots of devil's shoestring does not mean that an all-American insecticide industry can be built up overnight. A great deal of pioneering research must still be carried out, paid for either by the government or by private enterprise. Probably the government will be called on to do this preliminary work.

Participants in the research reported in the new bulletin were A. F. Sievers, G. A. Russell, M. S. Lowman, E. D. Fowler, and C. O. Erlanson, all of the U. S. department of agriculture, and V. A. Little, professor of entomology at the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—The president is due from some plain-talking advice from the inner council lieutenants he summoned to meet him at Pensacola, where he departs for his much-touted sortie into Georgia to put the axe to Senator Walter George.

The administration has quietly and thoroughly surveyed the Georgia situation and this is what they are going to tell Roosevelt.

The only way George can be licked is—

1. The president must make an unequivocal declaration against the anti-New Dealer. There can be no pussy-footing or punning about the threatened attack on Georgia.

2. The president has got to put the screws on Governor Ed Rivers to "come clean" on the fight on George.

The president's political advisers see Rivers as the key to the fight to lick George. Rivers professes to be a great Rooseveltian and last spring promised the president to throw his weight against George. But to date the governor has lifted a finger.

Wise truth is that he really wanted to and held a conference with his lieutenants to map plans to get into the anti-George campaign. But the boys flatly said "nothing doing."

Although publicly red-hot administration lieutenants, actually they are aligned with the same powerful business and utility interests who are behind George. Rivers' generalissimo are no more for Lawrence Camp, the White House candidate, than they are for the admiral admiral Talmadge, the other aspirant in the race.

In fact, they are using Talmadge as a bugaboo to alibi their secret sabotage of Camp, claiming that if George is licked, Talmadge might skin through over both Camp and George.

White House insiders say this argument is only a stall; that the real reason for the undercover hostility of the Rivers' camp is the influence of the powerful elements who are financing George's campaign. The survey made by the administration lieutenants has convinced them that Talmadge will draw more votes from George than he will from Camp and that the latter can lick both Old Guards if—the president makes the election of Camp a clear-cut personal issue and Rivers will make good on his word to take off his coat for Camp.

Otherwise, they say, Camp hasn't a chance and the fight is between George and Talmadge with the possibility that Talmadge may upset the dope and take George to the cleaners.

A STATEMENT CORRECTED

To the Editor: I read this statement in your paper of Wednesday: Arthur L. Johnson "is the author of the general welfare act, H. R. 4199."

I believe in fair play, and when a statement like that is printed for the American public to read, I believe it should be corrected. Johnson was employed to put the bill in legal form, but he is not the originator of the bill, nor did he really write it. His duty was to adapt the already drawn plan into legal form.

WHILE WAITING

The strike of the CIO Los Angeles Newspaper Guild against the Citizen-News ended Saturday afternoon. The only issue involved in the strike from the beginning was whether or not five employees had been discharged in violation of the National Labor Relations act. It is now mutually agreed to allow this issue to be settled by the final determination of the charges filed by the guild under the National Labor Relations act.

From the day the charges of law violations were made against the Citizen-News the chief interest of the Citizen-News has lain and will continue to lie in the litigation for the determination of the truth or falsity of those charges.

The charges were filed the next day after the dismissals were made. The formal complaint on the charges was not issued by the regional director of the National Labor Relations board until six weeks after the filing of the charges. Five days were then allowed the Citizen-News to file an answer and prepare for the hearing. The hearing consumed six days. It was devoted largely to testimony of the employees to the effect that they had been working for a boss who had not a trace of honor.

The Citizen-News offered only the testimony of the general manager to the effect that the dismissals were made for the purpose of retrenchment and because of decreased revenues and increased expenses. The hearing was concluded three weeks ago.

The examiner who heard the evidence has not yet made his findings. His report and recommendation will go to the National Labor Relations board at Washington for its action. From the board's decision appeal can be taken to the circuit court of appeals and thence to the supreme court of the United States. It may be a year before a final determination of the case is made.

After the hearing was concluded, the record was made and the case was on the road to final determination. The Citizen-News then proposed that the strike be terminated, that the 18 strikers and the five discharged employees be returned to the payroll and that both sides agree to abide by the final determination of the issue. This proposal has been accepted and the first assignment for the strikers were two weeks vacation with pay.

If the discharged employees finally lose their case they are to resign forthwith or be subject to immediate dismissal. If they win, and it is so ordered in the final decision, they will receive back pay for the time they were off the payroll.

As in most strikes, both sides of this strike lose, regardless of the final determination of the case. The strikers once worked for a paper for which they had a measure of respect and were thus able to maintain their own self-respect. They returned to a paper of which they are now thoroughly ashamed.

They once worked for a paper which they thought was liberal in its policies. They returned to a paper which they now declare has become viciously reactionary.

They once worked for a paper in whose family of employees they shared in the mutual regard that prevailed. They returned to meet the bitterness of 225 employees who remained loyal to the paper, while they, other labor organizations, some democratic organizations and communists sought to destroy the business that provides the jobs.

They once worked for a growing paper that by putting all its profits back into the business had increased the number of employees from three to 250. They returned to a paper with which all incentive to increase the number of employees has been destroyed.

They once worked under a manager who for 25 years had been able to enjoy the good will of his fellow workers. They returned to work under a manager whom they proclaim to be a law violator, a trickster, a double-dealer, a breaker of promises, a fraud, a cheat, a rattle-snake.

In the face of such mutual losses perhaps it is inconsequential who finally wins the National Labor Relations case. — Hollywood Citizen News of Aug. 1.

I'LL TELL YOU....

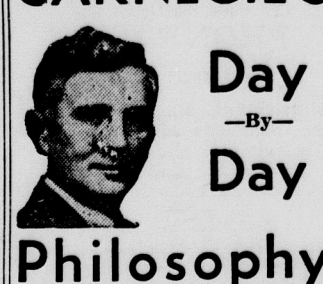

BY BOB BURNS

You'd be surprised how many letters I get asking my advice about matrimony or what to do for gumdrops or how to make a feather mattress. Down home, nobody ever regarded me as a fountain of wisdom and I always tried to keep out of other people's affairs. I've found folks can do a sight of harm in giving advice. I've seen it proved, time and again, right in my own family.

Grandpa Snazzy met my Uncle Slug on the street one day and said "Slug, you're just the man I've been lookin' for! I took your advice and told Grandma straight out that she couldn't boss and henpeck me any more." Uncle Slug slapped Grandpa on the back and said "Good for you, Snazzy! Now you can hold your head up!" and Grandpa says "Yes—but it's still pretty sore and bruised!"

CARNEGIE'S

Day—By—Day Philosophy

Would you like to know how to be happy? Of course you would, for that's the most universal yearning in all the world. Professor Edward L. Thorndike, the great psychologist who is connected with Columbia University, New York, says there are certain things necessary to a man's happiness. Here are some of them:

1. The approval of your community; at least the absence of scorn or contempt.
2. Friends and affection.
3. The opportunity for exercising power over some person, animal, or thing, and make them do what you wish. (For instance, a boy with a dog.)
4. A chance, now and then, for adventure.
5. Some room, or place, where you can go and know that no one is going to intrude.
6. Something, or somebody, to be angry at and attack.

This last is surprising. I had never heard of this guideline of happiness before. I think it over I am inclined to agree. It does give the average person a feeling of superiority, a feeling of importance to attack someone. That is one of the chief ways that fools get their satisfaction from life.

Here they are—six guides to happiness. Apply them to yourself and see if their acquisition will increase your ability to find happiness.

Near Fort Tryon Park on the banks of the Hudson River, New York, there died in April of this year a man of whom America is justly proud: George Gray Barnard, sculptor.

Mr. Barnard's awe-inspiring piece of sculpture, The Struggle of the Two Natures in Man, stands at the foot of the great staircase in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York; his massive and lifelike head of Lincoln has attracted thousands of people to his studio; his collection of Medieval art was bought recently for the Metropolitan museum for the staggering price of six hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Barnard has had honors galore heaped upon him!

Did Mr. Barnard consider himself great? No!

I once heard him speak so deprecatingly of his achievements that I was astounded.

"Why, Mr. Barnard," I questioned, "don't you realize that you have made remarkable contributions to art?"

He looked at me and I knew that all his accomplishments had shriveled into nothingness before his own eyes. He answered simply: "No, sir, I do not."

His aim so high that he could never hope to reach it, he demonstrated the greatness of man.

Frank A. Vanderlip, banker-financier, picked more high salaried executives than any other man in the history of the world with the possible exception of Andrew Carnegie. I once asked him what was the first thing he looked for.

"I look for a capable, enthusiastic, broad-minded man," he answered.

I then asked how he could determine in an interview whether a man had the qualifications.

He said that if a man had ability and enthusiasm, it stuck out all over him; and the replies to a couple of casual questions would determine whether he was broad-minded and clear headed.
